LanguageLab

LanguageLab is the leading virtual world language learning service. With head offices in London and New York and staff on 6 continents, the LanguageLab online campus brings together our teachers and native-speaker practice partners with online students from all over the world (over 45 countries at last count). Research and development into language learning in virtual worlds began in 2005. Now, 3 years and thousands of hours of student testing later, LanguageLab delivers highly innovative and expert assessed 'real world' teaching with 24/7 online access.

We support individuals, corporations, institutions and language schools with a great team and an unparalleled learning environment.

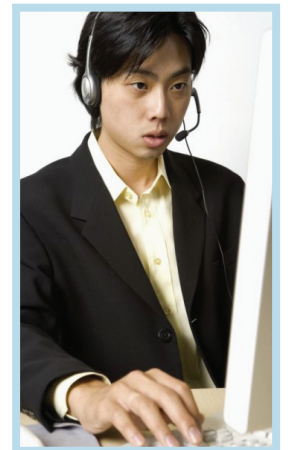

Working with LanguageLab

LanguageLab delivers highly complementary services that allow organizations to simply and quickly enhance their existing courses without incremental cost. Our education services help partners offer truly immersive lessons and practice sessions with native speakers from any broadband connected computer whether the students are working in the office, classroom or from home.

Adding LanguageLab to your learning environment is fast, simple and effective without major investments in new hardware or software. All learning and practice takes place on the Second Life Grid in a secure environment that provides unparalleled levels of management, monitoring and customization. For our larger clients we also create bespoke virtual online practice centres to fully support and enhance their brands and teaching styles.

Learning with LanguageLab

People at LanguageLab learn faster and more efficiently than with traditional online or classroom based methods.

Lessons are enjoyable and compelling, practice is immersive and convenient and the results are quickly apparent.

Our unique online courses blend intensive teacher led classes with an industry leading system of practice programs run by our instructors and native-speaker actors (called Teacher Reinforced Immersive Practice or 'TRIP'). Learning takes place on the Second Life Grid, in a secure, voice-enabled campus where Life based learning becomes a reality. Our courses are based on the CEF (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages) bringing it to life, taking the ALTE 'Can Do' statements and turning them into verifiable language skills.
